Experience fuels goal to aid offenders

ancho Cucamonga Police Sgt. Ruben Gonzales knows what it's like to be on both sides of the law.

Growing up in the central, south and east sections of Los Angeles, Gonzales was acutely aware of the impact gangs and gang violence have on people's lives.

"I grew up and experienced the madness firsthand," Gonzales said. "It gives me more insight into the problem."

After brushes with the law and a stint in the Army, Gonzales, 25, decided that a career in law enforcement was the best way to help the types of people he met growing up.

"The majority of people I grew up with are either in jail or dead," he

After repeatedly hearing that something has to be done about gangs and gang violence, he decided to do something about it. In 1985, he started the Phoenix program to work with serious habitual gang and juvenile offenders within the juvenile justice system.

The focus is to bring home to the juveniles the alternatives to gangs and criminal lifestyles, he said.

In 1989, he helped establish the Choices program to work with junior high students to intercede in their lives before gangs take a permanent

"The programs are a personal thing to me," Gonzales said. "It's something that needs to be done. It offers them hope.'

For his work with gangs he has received numerous awards including his most recent, the 1990 Governor's Victim Service and Public Safety Award, which he will receive on May

"These awards are not necessary," he said. "The satisfaction comes from what I'm doing.'

Gonzales said he hopes to continue to work with juveniles.

"I would be doing no good if I was in a place away from the kids."

Six officers from the Rancho Cucamonga Police Department recently received their California Highway Patrol Awards.

The criteria to earn a CVC 10851 Pin requires that the individual officer recover twelve stolen vehicles, with three of those being with arrests, within 12 months. The officer can also earn the award if he recovers six vehicles with arrests in 12 months.

Senior Deputy Michael Wirz and Sheriff's Specialist Rick Dysart received their fifth gold pin. Senior Deputy Tom Masner received his third pin and Senior Deputy John Schlabach, Deputy Radford and Deputy Frussell received their first pins.

When officials from the coroner's office zipped up the body bag containing the "dead" girl, several people cheered. The teen-ager's mother kept screaming: "Where's my daughter, where's my daughter!' A few of the onlookers cried. Many laughed nervously. Reactions from the approximately 500 students assembled in front of Don Antonio Lugo High School Saturday were mixed as the simulated drunk driving accident unfolded.

Student members of SADD, Students Against Driving Drunk, staged the event, complete with a student playing the role of a fatal victim, to warn their peers about dangers of drinking and driving - just in time for the school's prom last Saturday.

Area educators and parents want to drive home the fact that drinking and driving on prom and graduation nights can lead to tragedy.

To accomplish this, teachers and administrators from high schools in Rancho Cucamonga and Upland have

Saving a life all in a day's work for 2

By Kenneth Houck Bulletin Staff Writer

Helping save a person's life is expected if you are a firefighter, not a community services employee.

But that is what Janie Lynch did last month. Lynch, a recreation coordinator for Rancho Cucamonga, helped save the life of kitchen worker Soledad Villalobos, who had stopped breathing.

For their quick response, she and her supervisor were commended by the city for their heroic deed.

However Lynch doesn't consider herself a hero. "We're not heroes," Lynch said.

"We were just doing our job." Lynch is one of many city employees trained in first aid and cardiopulminary resuscitation, Joe Schultz, the city's community services director,

"I don't even remember what hap-pened," Lynch said. "You do things in a state of shock."

When Lynch reached the scene, she found Villalobos had collapsed and was slumped over in a chair.

'I got her on the ground and started to clear her throat," Lynch said. "I was shocked when she started breath-

Seconds later recreation supervisor Dave Moore arrived with oxygen and called the fire department. Villalobos was taken to the hospital by ambul-

"It showed me that I could do that," she said. "You take the classes, and it's in the back of your mind, but you never know.

she had done hit her.

"I just sat there for a while with a glazed look on my face," Lynch said. Dave (Moore) kept asking me if I was all right."

Moore, a first-aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation instructor, said it is vital that recreation employees be trained in lifesaving techniques.

"It's not written in the job description." Moore said. "But when you deal with seniors, you have to be prepared."

The Neighborhood Center serves senior citizens and youths with various activities and events, Moore said.

Chaffey Communities Cultural Center building revamped, ready for business

By Suzanne Sproul Bulletin Staff Writer

The Chaffey Communities Cultural Center in Upland is open for business.

Two years ago, fire almost destroyed the historic building, once home to St. Mark's Episcopal Church and later to local artifacts and collections. But the 18th Street building has been revamped and is ready to take on a new role in the community, according to Max van Balgooy, board member.

No longer will it serve as a museum, he said. Instead it will become a meeting hall and potential location for such diverse events as poetry readings and weddings. Center supporters agree the new direction is a good one, he said.

Restoration was completed using insurance money from the fire, grants and community donations. One grant was from the Institute of Museum Services. The matching $20,262 grant will be used to inventory the collection, determine the extent of damage, establish a temporary lab to perform minor cleaning and repair and prepare a long-range conservation plan for the items.

The building rental fees will be used to finish some minor repairs and to promote the goals of the board of direcsuch as tables, chairs, a movie screen and a piano still are needed.

The city of Upland just did a cultural survey and about 50 percent of those polled said they had heard of us and would be willing to use the center. The survey confirms our direction.

"First it will act as a musuem. Once the pieces and collections from the old building are restored and cleaned they will be exhibited in another building, van Balgooy said. In addition, the center board will help promote historic preservation involving the original Chaffey communities of Upland, Ontario, Rancho Cucamonga and Montclair. The building itself will serve as a performing arts center where chamber music concerts, small drama productions and movies can be presented would be held.

The community is interested in the center, he said. More than 100 people recently attended an invitation-only black-tie gala at the center.

"The gala was wonderful. There was a very nice mix of people - old citrus family members, city staff members and new families. I think that shows that everyone is interested in what is happening," he said.

Fellow board member Brian Brandt

The idea is to use the center as a community cultural center. It has excellent accoustics and is the right size for small gatherings. Upland needs more cultural activities and we hope the center can provide a setting for them," said Brandt.

The center has always suffered from a public identity problem, the Upland attorney said. In the past, the most frequent visitors were schoolchildren.

Lloyd W. Michael's retirement signals end of era in water district

very once in a while in Rancho Cucamonga we come to the end of an era and that every once in a while was celebrated last weekend at the retirement dinner of Lloyd W. Michael, secretary -general manager of the Cucamonga County Water

Michael (a lifelong resident of the Inland Valley) has served the district since 1972 and over the years has been instrumental in developing a growth plan to accommodate the expanding needs of Rancho Cucamonga.

When he became involved in the Water District there was no Rancho Cucamonga, there were only about 35,000 residents to serve, and the service area included not only the tri-communities of Alta Loma, Cucamonga, and Etiwanda but portions of the county area toward Fontana and into the Ontario sphere of influence (since annexed). The primary, nearly 100 percent, of the water supply came from the mountains. We were praying for good snow packs then as now, only now we need lots more have changed, there are any number of new water tanks, a major water treatment plant at the top of Etiwanda Avenue named after Lloyd D. Michael, sewage is available in most parts of the city, and we have grown to the point where the water supply is at best 50 percent, over a one-year period, from mountains and the remainder obtained through the Metropolitan Water District.

Congratulations to Lloyd Michael for guiding the Cucamonga County Water District (a separate agency) through years of monumental growth, for having the foresight to recognize the potential growth, and for creatively and carefully keeping the availability of our fragile water supply available now and, with conservative efforts by the residents of Rancho Cucamonga, for the future.

Congratulations to Kristine Cusick for being the first Cadet Girl Scout in the Rancho Rain Neighborhood of the Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council to earn her Silver

In the next couple of weeks she will be joined by several other members of her troop No. 1195 under the leadership of Lois Barton.

Cusick earned her honor by building a three-tier bookshelf and getting 106 books and three games donated by school friends and neighbors to fill the case.

She donated the bookshelf with the books and games to the children's ward at San Antonio Community Hospital, Upland.

range blossoms once filled the air with a sweet fragrance that always seems to stay implanted in your senses Horse-drawn carriages traveled at their own pace along Euclid Avenue and neighbors sometimes were miles away.

Times have changed, but this weekend you and your family can can take a small step back into Upland history. The Upland Historical Preservation Society is sponsoring a home tour featuring five houses that represent a remnant of the city's past.

Featured on the Sunday event will be Eve and Rick Faulkner's stately Victorian home on Washington Boulvevard, known by society members as the "wedding house;" the adobe rancho of Jack and Sally Nesbitt on Thirteenth Street; the building known affectionately around town as "the castle" on Euclid Avenue; the Eastlake Victorian home of Larry and Carol Timm on Ninth Street; and the Craftsman house with an arcade veranda of the Jim Lee family on Second Avenue. We're so excited about this tour. We've been working on this for months and we hope everyone comes out to see that Upland has a great many beautiful homes and a lot of history of its own," said Marian Cochran, society

Society members were selling tickets ahead of time, Cochran said, but now all tickets will be sold Sunday. They cost $10 and proceeds will be used to help establish historical districts within the city and to revitalize those areas. Tickets will be sold at the law offices of Don Maroney and Brian Brandt, 592 N. Euclid Ave. Tour hours are from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Originally the tour was to involve a drive-by of such historic city buildings as the newly renovated Chaffey Communities Cultural Center and the old Carnegie library downtown. But society members decided instead to concentrate on showing the five houses, according to Cochran.

If touring houses isn't exactly your thing, there also will be carriage rides along the tour route by C and F Carriage, boutique and food sales at the Maroney and Brandt offices and a display of antique cars parked along Euclid Avenue.

My husband and I plan on attending and we're going to bring our seven-month-old little girl along in her stroller. I don't think you're ever to young to learn about your home.

And if you still don't have your house tour fill, the 10th annual Childrens Home Society of California is having its "Showcase House of Design" open to the public from Sunday through May 20 in Claremont. Members of the Upland, Ontario, Rancho Cucamonga group Casa Alegre Auxiliary, the La Verne, San Dimas group Cradle Guild and Diamond Bar, Walnut group Les Guardians have teamed up with the Claremont auxiliary for the event.

Featured this year will be the California Four Square home of Dr. and Mrs. Brian Koffman, located at 153 W. Ninth St., Claremont.

The 4,000-square-foot house was built in 1906 for $5,000. It has a full third-floor attic and basement and glassed in porches surrounded by beautiful gardens.

Designers and florists from throughout the Southland have worked on the house to make it a thing of beauty. In addition to the tour, entertainers from ARISE Fine Arts Academy will perform at various times and on May 9 and May 19 there will be sampler luncheons from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Inland Valley's newspaper looks toward the future

What will the Inland Valley be like in the year 2000? What will the quality of life be for the thousands of us who call it home?

As the last decade of the 20th century begins, it is obvious the answers to those questions will come at a rapid pace as local governments, private enterprise and valley citizens make tough decisions on a wide array of public issues.

Information will be the key to how well those decisions are made. Indeed, the 1990s are being termed the "Information Decade.

Others say the '90s can be seen as a "Decade of Solutions." With world peace prospects brighter than they have been for years, the coming years can be a time when the focus is on the "home front.

With strong public leadership and an active and informed citizenry, it can be a time of solutions to problems in education, health and child care, the environment, crime and drugs, transportation and infrastructure renewal.

The "solutions" certainly won't come from government alone, especially Washington and Sacramento. They'll come from involved local people working together, exchanging ideas,

There is a new recognition that many of the actions taken by each individual city impact the neighboring cities. There is rising realization that regional cooperation is the only effective way to deal with water and air quality, land use planning and development, waste management, transportation and a host of other concerns.

Through its news columns, the Daily Bulletin will strive to keep readers informed with accurate, reliable and unbiased reporting. Through its Opinion pages, the newspaper will strive to encourage citizen participation and to be a platform for public dialogue in the search for "solutions" to issues.

Crawshaw's children Greg and Nikki suffered from mucopolysaccridoses, commonly called MPS, and both died before they reached their sixteenth birthdays.

To help her deal with and respond to her grief Crawshaw decided to organize an bowlathon fund-raiser in memory of Greg and Nikki. "Any time a DAY TRIPPING: The City of Upland Recreation Department is sponsoring several day trips during May.

The first trip, planned for May is a Ski Mammoth Turnaround. Leaving on Friday at midnight, we'll ride in a deluxe motor coach with lights off so everyone can sleep. We'll arrive in Mammoth early enough so you may have time for breakfast before the lifts open. We'll ski until 4:30 p.m. and then head home. We'll stop in Bishop for dinner - you'll have a variety of restaurants to choose. We'll return to Upland about midnight Saturday. The cost is $79.50 per person and it includes your lift ticket.

On May 13 we have a special way to spend Mother's Day. The Ramona Pageant in Hemet is the destination. We'll first go to the local park where there will be a local artists' display. You'll need to bring your own lunch. Then we'll go over to the Ramona Bowl to find our reserved seats for the show. This outdoor play uses the mountainside as the stage and features a cast of cast of over 350 people. Open to ages 10 and older, the cost is $25.50 per

To end the month, we're featuring a shopping spree to the Factory Merchant Outlet Stores in Barstow on May 30. There are currently 31 stores open in the mall, with 20 percent to 70 percent savings off retal prices. Some of the stores include Bugle Boy, Hanes, Toys Unlimited, Van Heusen, Factory Shoe Outlet, and Gitano. There are several places for you to enjoy lunch (on your own). The cost is $9.50 per person.

Did your item not make it into the Bulletin Board?

If you submitted an item for the Bulletin Board and you haven't seen it in print, there's probably a very good reason.

A severe computer failure occurred as we were preparing this issue of Valley Life for printing. Although we attempted to re-enter as many items as possible, numerous items were lost. We apologize for any inconvenience this may cause.

Also, because Valley Life is so new, some people are still unaware of our requirements for publication.

The main problem we have is releases which reach us too late to use. Because Valley Life is printed in advance, items must reach us at least two weeks prior to the desired publication date. This means that if you were to bring in an item today, the earliest it could run is the May 17 issue of Valley Life.

Items can be delivered to our offices at 2041 E. Fourth St.

Ontario, or mailed to Valley Life, P.O. Box 4000, Ontario, Calif. 91761.

We also get some releases which are handwritten. Because those are too easy to misread, items must be typed. Some items are delivered on non-standard sizes of paper — even on strips of paper torn from notebooks. These are too easy to lose.

Finally, a few items fail to give readers enough information to pursue. We need you to include at least a phone number people can call for more informa-

"We wanted to do something to have kids realize you don't drink and drive. We didn't want to just pass out buttons and say 'don't drink and drive,'" said Monica Tung, one of the "in-

Ortiz said the experience, including being handcuffed and shoved into a police car, 'sucked.'

"It was the worse feeling you realize that if you just drink one or two beers and get in the car and drive, nothing could be the same again," he added.

Don Lugo Principal Pat Mark

said the school has had at least one alcohol-related death every year, and she hoped the drama would make students think before they drink.

Vivian Firlein, a California Highway Patrol officer, helped students plan the demonstration. She said she participated in a similar event at San Dimas High School last year. When the SADD students from Don Lugo called asking what they could do to encourage a safe and sober prom she suggested the mock car crash.

Firlein said prom night

School organizations, such as SADD; Friday Night Live, a "sober" social club; and the Associated Student Body also provide information on the effects of drinking and driving, Petrocelli said.

Upland High School takes an active role in the sobriety of the students attending prom and graduation nights, vice principal Pete Raisbeck

"We do our own grad night so we can have better control of the sobriety of the kids," Raisbeck said.

To achieve this the students are carefully checked before they are allowed to enter the dance. "They are sober coming in, and they are sober coming out," Raisbeck

The students attending the event seemed almost grateful for the interest taken by the authorities and fellow students. The audience fell silent during Firlein's recitation.

The foundation's literature suggests that with total community involvement, including support from local businesses, law enforcement agencies, teachers, students and parents, students can have a great time without alcohol.

A representative of the foundation, Elaine Goodman, said many schools that follow their guidelines usually start planning for the end of the year celebrations at the beginning of the year, but they can start at any time.

"Grad night was focused on because it was picked by the California Highway Patrol as one of the four worse nights of the year for teens," she said.

Basically, the foundation encourages events organized by the parents. It is suggested that grad night be an all night party, start as soon as graduation ceremonies are over and include plenty of food and activities.

"The party is the parent's and community's gift to students sort of a right of passage.'

Goodman said part of the event's success and the reason organizers can draw, in many cases, up to 98 percent of the graduates is because the event acts like "an equalizer - no

Bulletin Staff Writer

Fontana middle school student Zach Shepard is not only learning about history, he is hoping to win it.

"This is pretty exciting for me. It's the first time I've participated in anything like this," Shepard, 12, said.

Shepard and four of his Almeria Middle School classmates will fly to Sacramento May 9 to participate in the State History Competition. If they win at the state level, the group will move on to the National History Competition in Washington D.C.

"I didn't think we would make it this far. We had quite a bit of competition," Shepard

Shepard and classmates Chris Johnson, Anthony Knudson, Natashia Rendon, and Talaina Woodson won second place at the San Bernardino County History Day competition last month which qualified them for the state competition. The Almeria Middle School students were the only students from Fontana to make it to the state level.

The five students are hoping to win the state competition with the help of a video camera.

The group won the county competition with a 10 minute video film on the history of writing, which was researched, written, directed, filmed and edited by the students.

"These kids are so incredibly bright. I can't believe what they've came up with. I've never worked with a group that was so independent and creative," said Lisa Pitcher, the group's social studies teacher.

Pitcher had learned that the county was joining the history competition for the first time this year and asked her students if they wanted to participate in the competition in the media event. The competition has group and individual media, project, and performance cate-

The student's video includes "disappearing objects and people" and other special effects to show what the world would be like without the written word and uses scenes to explain the creation of the alphabet, and its progression to the printing press, typewriter and computer. THE LEGACY OF CHINESE TRADITIONAL MEDICINE

by Edwin Feigin, Attorney at Law

Member of Greater Los Angeles Press Club The four thousand year old discipline of Chinese traditional medicine can heal or control many diseases or ailments which are the despair of modern western medicine. Among these are: arthritis, asthma, diabetes, migraine, phlebitis, osteoporosis, stress, hair loss and stroke. Chinese traditional medicine, also called Natural Medicine, uses prinfoot amputated in November 1989 by western medicine. After a leg bypass in each leg to improve the blood circulation in his feet, it appeared that the operation on the left leg was not successful. A persistent infection was apparent in the left foot that defied all treatment including strong antibiotics, bed rest and more surgery. In an attempt to remove the source of the infection, my surgeon cut a huge wound in the right side of my left foot seeking to remove the offending material. Unfortunately it was located behind a bone and more penetration of the foot would have destroyed it in any event. At that point, my doctors decreed that the only solution was amputation of the foot to avoid the risk of the infection spreading throughout my blood stream and

Fortunately, my roommate at the Kaiser Permanente Hospital where I

Since I had nothing to lose by seeking his assistance, I discharged myself from the hospital and commenced treatment with him. He prescribed a strict and entirely new diet for me, an herbal tea formula and acupuncture in both legs. Within three weeks, I noticed a marked improvement in my left foot. The color was much better, the foul putrefaction smell started to subside and the huge wound on the side of my foot was noticeably healing. After 2 months of treatment, the smell was completely gone, the wound was completely healed and my foot was pronounced saved by both Dr. Yeh and my surgeon. My surgeon informed me I had strong pulses in each foot, indicating good blood circulation,

For years Alta Loma High School has plugged along like the Avis of the local track and field scene, piling up a lot of second-place finishes but never getting quite enough to get over the top.

That all changed last week when the Braves won not one, but two, team championships by sweeping both ends of a dual meet with favored Upland to emerge as the boys and girls champions in the Baseline For the boys, it was the first time since a 1983 title that the Braves were able to finish first, and boys coach Tom Palicki was there every step of the way.

A Hollywood script writer burning the midnight oil couldn't have penned a more enthralling finish. The teams were tied 65½-65½ going into the final event, the mile relay.

"Our first runner, Juan Arancibia, got us a little bit of a lead but their second man pulled even with our No. 2 guy, Gilbert Michel," Palicki said. "At about 300 yards Michel just left their guy and made it real easy for final two guys."

Freshman Eugene Brooks and anchor Mark Taylor brought home the victory in 3:36.0, but don't ask Palicki for any of the

"I don't know what Michel's time was. That's the only time all year I didn't get any splits. I was so excited I completely forgot about it.'

The 70½-65½ victory gave Alta Loma a perfect 7-0 league record, to Chaffey's 6-1 and Up-land's 5-2 mark. If Upland would have won, the three teams would have been trichampions at 6-1.

The Alta Loma girls had an easier time, their 721/2-541/2 victory giving them a 6-0 record to Upland's 5-1 mark.

Next up for the Alta Loma track squad is Friday's Baseline League finals Friday afternoon at Pomona-Pitzer College, where the top three in each event move on to the first round of CIF qualifying is May 12 at Camarillo High School. The preliminary round of the league meet was scheduled to be held Tuesday at Pomona-Pitzer.

But for the moment Palicki and Co. are savoring the sweet aroma of the league championships.

"I think our program is as healthy as it's ever been," Palicki said. "We have a lot of young people who won it for us, and one of the big reasons we won was the senior leadership we had."

Along the way, the Braves made Palicki look like a proph-

As is his custom, he handicapped the meet on paper, with Alta Loma earning 70 points. So he was only a half point off the actual score.

Leading the Braves' boys were Taylor in the 800 and mile and the relays, along with three outstanding sprinters - Brian Bendik, Kevin Marshall and

Paul Evans, a junior who has emerged as one of the team's quiet leaders, broke off a personal-best 46-4 to take the triple jump and teammate Jeff Burnley finished a surprise second with a 43-footer, easily his best jump of the year.

Junior Allan Hebbert made some big contributions to the team despite split his spring sports time between track and baseball. Because Alta Loma

Panthers sweep conference swim championships

East Los Angeles proved the perfect site for celebration over the weekend for the Chaffey College swim teams as the Panther men's and women's squad captured 1990 Foothill Conference swimming championships, clocking in with several conference records along the way.

"We were all certainly very happy," said head coach Mike Dickson following the meet held at East Los Angeles College. "It was a close meet on both sides. The men's title came down to the very final relay event. It was an exceptional meet for us.

Chaffey won the 400 freestyle relay, giving the Panthers enough points to edge runnerup Rio Hondo 757-734 for the men's crown.

Tregg Ries, who picked up individual conference titles in the 100-meter, 200 and 500 freestyle events plus swam anchor legs on winning Chaffey units in the 400 and 800 relays, gained Foothill Conference Swimmer of the Year honors for his efforts. His times in the 200 (1:47.5) and 500 (4:54.8) freestyle events both proved conference records. Teammate Rick Coes also set a new FC standard while winning the 200 butterfly (2:06.5), along with taking first in the 400 individual medley and being part of the winning 200 medley, 400 and 800 freestyle relay squads. Randy Shorts turned an impressive double himself, winning both the 1-meter and 3meter diving events. Teammate Dan Gomez finished second at 3-meters and third at 1-meter. Meanwhile, Jim Wee won in the 100 and 200 backstroke races as well as taking a leg on the first place 400 and 800

In all, the Panthers would win eight individual titles plus all four relay crowns, outscoring rival SBVC 571-530 for their second straight Foothill Conference championship.

"It was a great meet for our (women's) team," added Dickson, now looking ahead to a strong showing in the State Meet at Mt. San Antonio College. "I've got four outstanding girls, three which should go to the (state) finals. Team-wise, I feel confident we can finish between sixth and eighth. Chaffey's relay units turned in new FC marks in the 200 medley (2:01.2), 200 (1:47.1) and 400 (3:50.7) freestyles.

In the conference finals, Mc-Guire won individual titles in the 200 and 500 freestyle plus swam legs on Chaffey's 200 and 400 medley relays plus the 200 and 400 freestyle relays, all of which won top honors. McGuire herself set a new FC mark in the 200 freestyle (2:01.2) and her second-place finish (56.6) in the 100 freestyle bested the old conference mark, as did winner Alycia Copp (56.0) of SBVC.

Racey brought home individual titles in the 50 and 100 breaststroke plus took part in the four Panther relays. Her 1:31.1 clocking in the 100 breaststroke set a new conference standard.

Alfira Nastution, last year's high-point scorer in the women's state finals, took individual honors in the 200 IM and 100 butterfly (her 58.8 clocking in the latter a new FC record) and swam as part of all four winning relays.

Kim Rhodes finished first in the 50 and 100 backstroke and third in the 59 freestyle while also taking part in all four relay wins.

Larry Tisdale didn't get all the players he wanted when he starting putting together his West squad for this summer's third annual San Bernardino County All-Star Football Clas-

A few big names couldn't play because of other committments, but Tisale insists he's very happy with the 36 prep standouts who dot his roster.

Tisdale was able to line up at least one player from each of the 15 schools in his territory, and he'll begin the task of assembling all that talent June 30 when the players begin drills for the July 7 game at Chaffey College.

"There are so many skilled athletes on this team, I think the team will represent our area very well," said the Etiwanda High School coach. "It will be a great showcase for these athletes.

Even before the West and East squads have sweated through a workout and played a single down, the game is not hard to scope out. It has all the earmarks of a duel between Tisdale's stable of runners and the East's passing attack, to be built around Yucaipa High School quarterback Bob Taylor.

Jim Taylor, Bob's father and the Yucaipa High coach, will guide the East squad.

Tisdale has five players each from Upland, Eisenhower, Fontana and Etiwanda to form the nucleus of his 36-man squad.

Three-fourths of what he pencils in as his starting defensive secondary is from Fontana - a ploy he sees as a definite advantage in combating the East's passing attack.

While each of the players selected can play both an offensive and defensive position, he hopes to be able to use players on just offense or defense. When he starts sorting out his lineman, his plan is to put the top talent on the offensive line.

'We start on June 30 and we have seven days to decide," he said. "We've already done a lot of that sort of thing, and we'll just have to see how it goes. Everybody will get to play a

Al DiRoberto originally got into coaching a junior hockey team when a friend said it would be good for DiRoberto's hyperactive son. It's not secret why he's staying.

A transplanted Easterner, Di-Roberto has lived in Southern California since 1985. Not long after he moved west, a friend recommnded the sport of hockey as an outlet for his hyperactive son, Torrey.

"We put him in it, and he took a liking to it," DiRoberto said. "When kids try it they usually get committed to it. I liked it too.

Last month DiRoberto took a group of youngsters from the Ontario area to the pinnacle of success, winning the state agegroup championship in Stockton. The sweep of four games in Stockton put the finishing touches on a storybook kind of season, when the Jets posted a perfect 31-0 record.

By virtue of the fact that he grew up in New York, it's no surprise that DiRoberto has long been hooked on hockey. But he can sum up the sudden interest in the sport locally in two succinct words: Wayne Gretzky.

"Gretzky is the greatest hockey player that has ever been, and we picked up quite a bit of interest in youth and adult hockey when he was traded to the Los Angeles Kings. It probably almost doubled our enrollment. The other rinks (in Southern California) picked up, too. Hockey is a very elite sort of sport, and there are only about 1,500 kids in Southern California playing it. The Ontario Jets, consisting of youngers 13 and 14 years of age, won all four of their preseason practice games, then sailed through their league schedule - beating teams based in San Diego, Norwalk, Paramount, South Coast, Bay Harbor, Pasadena, Thousand Oaks, Burbank, Lake Arrowhead and Culver City - with a perfect 20-0. The Southern California

League season began in October and completed play in March. In league playoffs, the Jets beat Bay Harbor 6-2 and 2-1 in the best-of-three format, then downed Norwalk in another twogame sweep in the finals, 6-2 and 4-2. "The whole goal for this year was No. 1 try to get the players together," DiRoberto said. "In the past, we've pretty much geared everything toward individual players. This year we had the individual skills and we wanted to put it together as a team. The whole thing was to get to the state and finish No.

The state tournament began April 21, four teams playing a round-robin format, with two from Southern California and two from the northern part of the season. When the Jets hammered Tri Valley from the Bay Area 7-0 and downed Norwalk 5-3, it left them matched against Sacramento in what turned out to be the title game.

After skating to a 1-1 tie through regulation play, the Jets scoring on a goal by Craig Campbell, the team's leading scorer this season.

In the sudden death overtime, Kevin Mathiesen dug the puck out of the corner 21/2 minutes into the overtime and fed Rogie Savage, who flipped in the statewinning goal with a backhand shot past the Sacramento goalie.

DiRoberto, who lives in Upland, was assisted by Richard Savage of Riverside and Mark Thompson of Ontario, with Greg Goodwin of LaVerne serving as the team manager.

On the roster were Jeff Miller of Fullerton, Craig Campbell of Chino, Torrey DiRoberto and Ryan Nevins of Upland, Bryan Elliot of Claremont, Mike Goodwin and Mike Yeats of LaVerne, Ian Kaikko of Covina, Kevin and Kory Mathiesen and Zeke Thompson of Ontario, Ronnie Ramirez of Crestline, Rogie Savage of Riverside and David Ahn

Pomona Jr. Y-Lympics

The Pomona Valley YMCA will holds its sixth annual Jr. Y-Lympics on Saturday, May 19, at Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut. More than 300 youngsters are scheduled to compete in the YMCA's annual spring track and field meet for those in age from 5 to 12.

"This meet is rapidly becoming one of the major youth sports events in this valley," said Eric Boyd, YNCA associate director. "Last year's meet had a large field of participants and several schools from Pomona, Diamond Bar and Claremont brought their entire track team to compete.

"This year, we've already heard from track coaches from three Pomona schools and one in Claremont. We expect more to follow suit.' Participation in the meet has increased in each of the past five

Boyd said the majority of the children who participated in the meet last year had no team affiliation or formal track and field training. Youngsters in the meet were from such diverse cities as Claremont, Diamond Bar, La Verne, Pomona, San Dimas and Rancho Cucamonga. Others hailed from Brea, Walnut and Hacienda Heights. This year's Jr. Y-Lympics will feature four track events and two field events, the same fomat as in 1989. The famous Mt. SAC track will be used in the 440 for 11 and 12-year olds only. Other track events include the 50 and 100 yard sprints, plus an obsta-

"Obviously, right off the bat when you can't have two of the better linebackers it's no advantage. Those kind of linebackers don't come along that often, and that hurts us a little bit.'

Offensively, Tisdale and his Etiwanda coaching staff will employ a wing-T attack, with Upland's Mark Wilson and Ontario Christian's Mike Salazar as the quarterbacks.

'Mark Wilson is very used to that type of offense, and Salazar is left-handed, which may help us in certain situations," Tis-Penciled in as the running backs is the explosive quartet of Brian Fitz of Chaffey, Samita Vaoifi of Fontana, Brian Williams of Chino and Eric Malbrough of Eisenhower. All four rushed for over 1,000 yards last season, led by Fitz' 1,675 yards and 21 touchdowns.

'This year was an exceptional one for running backs, and we've got four great ones," Tis-dale enthused. "And up front (on the offensive line) we've got real size and real strength. We're figuring now to put the best athletes on the offensive line. With the running backs we have a real quick offensive line should be the key to the game.'

Etiwanda's Lorenzo Martinez, Eisenhower guard Chris Black and Eisenhower tackle Steve Causey figure to be fixtures there, with Upland's Jed Wockenfuss and Etiwanda's Mike Hewitt splitting center duties.

Tisdale said Bloomington's multi-talented Tony Wright will play somewhere on offense, either as a running back or as a wide receiver. Another offensive plus is Don Lugo placekicker Mike Estrella, an all-CIF selection in both football and soccer.

By all-star rules, defenses must employ a five-man front and there are certain limitations to blitzing, all designed to infuse as much offense as possible.

Tisdale is looking to Hessley Hempstead of Upland, Tim Ross and Malcolm Motem of Eisenhower and Oscar Mariona of Etiwanda to play a lot of defensive minutes, although Mariona could wind up at linebacker.

Other linebackers figure to be Shawn Sandefer of Upland and possibly Mariona or Etiwanda teammate Scott Cruz.

In the secondary, the Fontana trio of William Ephraim, Alvin Blache and Kenneth Cannon loom as starters.

The advantage is that those kids have worked together and they know each other's moves and can cover for each other,' Tisdale said. 'And with the passing attack the East is putting together, that's important.'

Tisdale will be joined on the coaching staff by Etiwanda assistants John Everard, Pete Johnson, Steve Sullivant, Nick Cruz and Tim Ritter along with Bloomington defensive line coach Robert Kistner. One additional coach may be added to the squad.

The East figures to operate offensively around Bob Taylor, who completed 61 percent of his passes last season for over 1,300 yards and 17 touchdowns. His favorite receiver at Yucaipa, Wes Samuelson, will also play.

Heading the running attack will be Ron Rivers of San Gorgonio, who shared CIF Division I Player of the Year honors with Sylvester, and Cajon speedster Ladale Jackson.

Tickets, priced at $5, will be sold on game night on a firstcome, first-served basis. Organizations may blocks of tickets in advance. For more information, call Ray Imbriani, the all-star game chairman, at 796-0281.

CP Pomona cage camps announced

Dave Bollwinkel, head men's basketball coach at Cal Poly Pomona, will direct three different summer camps this year directed at youths in the community.

The first camp is aimed at both boys and girls ages 8-15, with an emphasis on fundaments, offensive and defensive techniques and team play and strategy. It is scheduled to run from June 25-29, with sessions set to go from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. every day (lunch included), all at a cost of $120.

Two specialty camps are geared for high school players who have not started their senior year of school. Scheduled for August (so as not to conflict with summer league programs), the Big Man camp (Aug. 13-14) will teach post play for interior players. The Guard camp (Aug. 16-17) will emphasize competition for the perimeter player, including those at point guard, off guard and small forward.

The specialty camp sessions will also run from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. (lunch not included), at a cost of $45 per-camp.

101 Review board; variances, permits and compliance agreements.

A review board is hereby established to review hardship and special cases which cannot follow the letter of this part. Said review board shall consist of the Water Utility Director, the City Engineer, the Fire Chief and the City Planning Director, or their appointed representative. Appeal of board decisions shall be made to the City Council. It is the purpose of the review board to review hardship or spacial cases and to determine whether or not said case warrants a variance, permit or compliance agreement. Said board shall consider the facts of each case and decide whether to grant a variance or a permit or to enter into a compliance agreement within five (5) working days of the receipt of a properly completed "Application for Variance/Permit/Compliance Agreement" form. A variance shall be granted only for reasons of economic hardship which is defined as a threat to an individual business's primary source of income. (But under not circumstances shall inconvenience or the potential for damage of landscaping be considered an economic hardship which justifies a variance.) The board shall authorize only the implementation of equitable water use restrictions which further the purpose and intent of the emergency water conservation plan. The special water use restrictions authorized by the board in of the Moderate Shortage restrictions shall apply to llowing uses of water:

Teacher hopes to help students build some confidence

By Justin Sherman Bulletin Staff Writer

It's a long walk down the hall to Judy Wilcox's corner class-

"It smells like a high school, doesn't it?" the Ontario High School art teacher comments along the way. "I could be blind and still I'd know I was in a high school."

Wilcox, 39, says, half-seriously, that the administration has chosen to place her art department in the back corner of campus "so they can forget about me."

Her students often attend only her class and its location allows them to enter school without checking in at the main office, she says.

It is but one of many indiscre-. tions the administration seems willing to afford Wilcox because of her remarkable ability to reach students and nuture art-

Since 1987, her students have won more than 90 awards in local art contests, and one of her advanced student's work is presently on display in New York.

"We've blown away the other schools in the area," she says But the secret of it all, the one she tells with child-like glee, is "I'm not an art teacher." In fact, six years ago, Wilcox wanted to be a Los Angeles cop, but three knee surgeries prevented it. When Wilcox began searching for a job, a friend mentioned, offhandedly, "You were going to be a teacher once.

"No way," Wilcox remembers saying. "I'll have to wear a dress and put on make-up. Uhuh, no thanks.

Although it had expired, Wilcox did have a teaching credential from college, and something about teaching sparked her in-

Wilcox decided to bill herself as a physical education teacher, mostly because she knew she wouldn't have to wear a dress. As a lark, she included on her resume that she had taken a couple of art classes in college and might be interested in teaching it.

At the time, Paul Ward was the principal at Ontario High and he was in the process of hiring 25 new teachers.

When Ward called her to interview for the vacant art teacher position, Wilcox kept seeing herself in a dress and the image made her cringe.

She clung to her desire to teach P.E. until a friend astutely pointed out, "Do you want to be chasing high school girls around a field when you're 50?"

Suddenly, teaching art didn't seem so bad after all, and furthermore, Wilcox liked Ward. He had fresh roses on his desk. "And I knew I wanted to work for a man with roses on his

But since Wilcox had as much experience in art as she did "in auto mechanics," she would have to create a convincing portfolio if she was to have any chance of landing the job.

"I sat down and drew up three crazy little pictures on these pieces of paper and then I bought a fake leather folder that looked sharp. That was my port-

Although the other 13 candidates for the position brought large, impressive portfolios, Wilcox won out. "I asked Paul why he hired me and he said, 'You were the kind of person I wanted.'

But from the beginning, Wilcox faced difficult obstacles. When she arrived at her first class, the students asked, "Hey, where's the bike?' Wilcox thought perhaps her predecessor kept his ten-speed in the room or that he exercised on a stationary bike during lunch. She was horrified to learn that during class, students would move the desks to the side and play softball with waddedup paper, using a small threewheel scooter to go from base to Astounded by the story she was told, Wilcox asked, "What would your teacher do?" The students replied, "Oh, he kept score."

Wilcox would later learn that this same teacher allowed his students to stuff paper in parallel trash cans and upon igniting it, would race to see which flames reached the ceiling first.

It was safe to say, change was on the forefront. Wilcox would spend three years feeling out the program before she decided to begin taking art classes at Cal Poly Pomona in an effort to become a better teacher. "No one had ever taught me to draw. The effort paid off. Not only did Wilcox discover her own artistic talent, but it taught her, firsthand, that art is a reflection of life. And the more fully one lives life, the better one's art. There would be no more recreations of Xeroxed drawings in Wilcox's class. Instead, her students would take to the field -Art students could often be witnessed digging into the ground, examining the world beneath, and then talking about it and finally drawing it.

Other class exercises included hugging a tree, kissing it and then writing about the experi-

At about the point in the semester when they were asked to describe their feelings watching the moon rise, art students came to understand that Judy Wilcox wasn't quite like their other teachers.

"When I first had her, I thought she was a little weird,' says Fabian Iezzi, one of Wilcox's advanced students. "But she's opened my eyes to so many things around me. I don't consider her just a teacher, but a philosopher.'

And also a friend. Above all else, Wilcox tries to teach her students love. "I don't get the cream of the crop in here. Many of these kids come from poor families. They're lucky if they have one parent, let alone two.' Wilcox is quick to point out the problem kid is often the most talented artist. But her fight "to help them discover who they are through their art," is waged on many fronts and lost on many more.

Of the 100 students who start with Wilcox at the beginning of a given year, one-fifth will be kicked out of school for behavioral problems, she says. Wilcox fights to keep them in, but often loses out to other, less committed teachers.

And for the ones she does reach, "the ones who haven't had the life totally sucked out of them by the system," the gift she gives is double-edged. "It's a hard love. They are open, but the world isn't and it becomes such a struggle for them," Wilcox mourns, "and that's what I cry over.'

Each day, as she ventures down from her mountain home in Lytle Creek, Wilcox finds the battle more difficult to wage.

Last summer, Wilcox finally decided she had had enough. "I was sitting on my porch swing, looking out at the sky, and I said to myself, 'I need to go to Mon-

Restaurateur honors Cinco de Mayo holiday

By Rosa Maria Santana Bulletin Staff Writer

For Pedro Lopez, a Pomona restaurant owner, Cinco de Mayo is not just another day filled with mariachi music, tortillas and beans.

It is a day of remembrance. "That day represents the maximum (in Mexican patriotism) due to the circumstances the country was in," said Lopez who is a native of Puebla, Mexi-

"Mexico was defenseless at that time," he said. "The Indians who fought in the war didn't have sophisticated guns, yet they still won."

That date is remembered by Puebleanos with pride," he said. Although some Mexican-

Americans fondly believe the day holds important Mexican history, as Lopez does, other local restaurant owners say Cinco de Mayo is just another opportunity to market pinatas and Mexican cuisine.

'The celebrations are used as an excuse to celebrate, drink and to have a party," said Alejandro Sanchez, manager of El Torito in Ontario. "It's not seen as a Mexican national holiday.'

Renee Northrop, manager of Las Cabanas restaurant on Holt Avenue, agrees with Sanchez as her restaurant does not fully celebrate the day because of the apathy she has noted from her customers.

"No one thinks about Cinco de Mayo anymore," she said. "Five years ago, we would bring in mariachis and have special carnitas for the day, but we stopped doing that.

Young Hispanics don't care anymore (about the day)," she said. "They prefer to go to El Torito or to the Red Onion because they attract a younger, dancing crowd." In fact, on Cinco de Mayo it is mostly the business crowd, particularly men, who take advantage of the day's festivities at El Torito, Sanchez said. They are the group that generate most of the day's revenues, he said. May 5, 1862 is recorded in Mexican history books as the Battle of Puebla. Headed by President Benito Juarez and guided by Gen. Ignacio Zaragoza, nationals defeated French forces who were struggling to establish a satellite state in

This is the 13th year for Pomona's celebration

By Rosa Maria Santa Bulletin Staff Writer

The 13th annual Cinco de Mayo festival for the city of Pomona will take place Sunday at the city's civic center plaza from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. The event is free to the pub-

A dance and singing contest will be on the day's agenda as well as the annual crowning of the Cinco de Mayo queen. Councilman Tomas Ursua will do the crown-

After the crowning of the queen, the councilman will open the day's events by having the first dance.

"This is the first time we have had six queens. We're lucky to have two or four," said Nancy Lopez, the woman behind the annual Chicano

She said she believes the celebration is important to the city as it emphasizes the city's diversity.

"The festivities bring about a cultural awareness,' she said. "It helps us share our ethnicity, helps others understand our deep roots, our cultural heritage. 'Because of the many, many people who have left their homes in Mexico to start a new life here, it gives them the self-esteem and the self-awareness of being Mexican," she said.

Trophies will be awarded to participants who ranked in the dancing and singing contests. They will be accompanied by the mariachi group "Los Halcones."

Sixty-five students from Madison Elementary School will be on hand to perform various regional folk dances.

The Ganesha High School folklorico dance ensemble also will perform in the after-

Last year about 4,000 people attended the event and Lopez said she projects that 5,000 people will attend this Nineteen booths will be on display throughout the event. About 14-15 of them will have food and the rest will carry information about various civic activities.

Notedly, there will be no alcoholic beverages sold at the event.

Pomona Parks and Recreations is expected to bring out a few games for the day, she

A few of the sponsors for the day's events are: Foothill Beverage Co., Budweiser, the city of Pomona, General Dynamics, General Telephone Co., College of Ostopathic Medicine and the Pomona Unified School District.

The battle, which ended in a Mexican victory, is commemorated because of the determination and courage demonstrated by the Mexican militia, which included the country's native Indian population.

Because Lopez was born and raised in the state where the historical battle occurred, the date is of particular importance

It reminds him of the fiestas held annually in his hometown of Tehuacan, Mexico.

gathers there is a big fiesta for the day," he said. "There is not one pueblo, however small, that doesn't celebrate the day throughout the state of Puebla."

Lopez, 48, who owns a thriving Mexican restaurant on Garey Avenue, said he does not plan to make a big ado about the celebration. He plans to be cooking and cleaning as usual, as he is the restaurant's chief.

Although mariachis and margaritas will be absent from his restaurant, he will think of Cinco de Mayo as a day of Mexican courage and self-determination, he said.

83-year-old first to use new system

By Victoria Hoskins Bulletin Staff Writer

As part of Los Angeles County's $5 million computer expansion, the Claremont Public Library began using a new computerized checkout system April

The first person to use the new system was Harold Pomeroy, 83, of Claremont. Pomeroy first began going to the public library in Pomona when he was 4 years old.

After moving to Claremont when he was about 12, Pomeroy remembers riding his horse or bicycle from Base Line Road to the original store-front library site on Yale Avenue.

The library was eventually moved to an elegant mediterranean building on Harvard Avenue. That building was torn down to build what Pomeroy refers to as "this Fort Knox" in 1974.

The new system employs a bar code sticker on the back of plastic "keycards" which will eventually be issued at all Los Angeles County libraries.

John McClellan, the community library manager, said more than 5,000 people have had their library cards transferred to a key card and they expect to sign-up at least 20,000 within the next year or two.

Key card holders can use all 91 branches of the county system. When all libraries have been computerized it also will be easier to keep track of books and borrowers throughout the system, McClellan said.

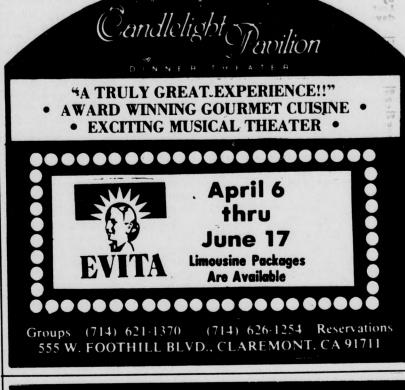

McClellan said they are pleased with the system and relieved the transition has gone so smoothly without major glitches.

He said its taken about a year to put bar codes on more than 90,000 books

He remembers helping the first librarian reshelve books when he was a small boy.

Anna Robinson opened the first library 75 year ago. She served the community for 25 years and was replaced by Vera Paul who ran the library for 24 more years. "Two women kept it open for almost half a century,' McClellan said.

Alhambra official recruited

By Gina Vasquez Cabral Bulletin Staff Writer

The challenge of a growing water district attracted Thomas E. Shollenberger to the Cucamonga County Water District. Shollenberger, who begins work at the water district May 7 as the new general manager, was in Rancho Cucamonga last week to "get a feel for what's He will be replacing going on. Lloyd W. Michael who retires today, after 18 years. "I felt it was a good opportunity for me," Shollenberger said of his new position. "Working for the district allows me to break away from municipal service. Shollenberger has worked for Alhambra for the past 29 years. He was the general manager of the utility division.

"I went to work for Alhambra

NEWSLINE By Phil Elderkin

while the highlyacclaimed musical Evita continues to delight audiences at Griswold's Candlelight Pavilion Dinner Theater in Claremont, there is no slowdown in behind-the-scenes action. Elegant plans are already underway to celebrate the 5th Anniversary of the Loewe's My Fair Lady. However, an

Candlelight Pavilion on October 11, 1990. The feature at traction at that time will be Lerner and even more extensive program surrounding the anniversary will be announced in the near future ... Meanwhile, Evita is being performed at the Candlelight on a specially constructed tilted stage that cost more than $6,000. This stage allows the audience to get more into the production, while providing an almost three-dimensional effect. Powerful recessed lights are also freckled into the floor of the stage to highlight, at certain points in the show, the individual performances of Julie Dixon (Eva Peron); Michel Woolworth (Che Guevara); and David Aldrete (Juan Peron) ... The Australian-born Dixon makes 15 costume changes during Evita; four of which must be accomplished within 30 seconds! The real Eva Peron, who felt the heat as well as the illumination of being married to one of the world's most famous dictators, packed more living into her brief 33 years than most women do in a lifetime! ... When Julie sings the show's title song,"Don't Cry For Me Argentina," it's like the audience has been musically vaccinated with a memory it will never forget. Theater-goers also tend to quickly discover the clever lines in the score of Evita. A perfect example is when Eva Peron sings in Rainbow High: "The people need to adore me, so Christian Dior me! This Evita woman is one smart cookie, laced with equal doses of charm and strychnine!

straight out of high school," he said. "I dug holes. They gave me a shovel and said, 'you dig and we'll tell you when to stop.

Shollenberger is looking forward to working with the district's board of directors after having worked with city councils in Alhambra.

'The real advantage is that they both have elected officials," he said of the two cities. "But their (CCWD) purpose is solely for the purpose of the water district.

"IT SOLD!!"
We hear those words a lot in the Classified Department.
They come from the many advertisers...people like you...who have been successful in selling articles they've advertised in the Classified
